First Public Audience Granted to Americans By the Pope After His Recent Critical Illness.

American pilgrims to Rome were honored with the first public audience by Pope Pius X. since his recent critical illness. The pope appeared on the little balcony of the Vatican court and bestowed the papal blessing upon the throng. The picture shows his holiness, indicated by a cross. It is of particular interest because the world had never expected the pope would be able to leave his bed.

BATTLE FOUGHT IN CANYON

Provisional President Huerta Announces He Will Redouble the Government's Activity Against the Rebels in All Parts of the Republic. General Blanco Appointed Minister of War—Troops at the Capital.

Mexico City, June 16.—Two thousand Carrancists were defeated by a body of federal troops under General Telleria at Canon de Bustamante, near Villa Aldama. The rebels had 150 killed and a great many wounded. The federal losses are not stated, but will not exceed 50. The rebels laid a plan to ambush the federals in this canon and were assisted by the people of the nearby town of Bustamante. The federals, however, routed the rebels down with machine guns. Telegraphic communication with Campeche, where Governor Castillo started a revolution some time ago, was resumed. Information received from that place is that Governor Castillo and his followers have retreated to the mountains before the federal troops, who have occupied Campeche.

The recent cabinet changes seem to indicate that General Huerta is determined to take the reins of government into his own hands without confiding to subordinates the direction of military events or the civil measures for pacifying the country. It is now an open secret that General Huerta and General Mandragon, the minister of war, disagreed because the provisional president did not leave the campaign at liberty to direct the campaign without any interference from

WILL URGE ACTION ON CURRENCY BILL

President Wilson May Address
Congress This Week.

Washington, June 16.—The Wilson administration will take some decided move in regard to the banking and currency revision measure this week. President Wilson hopes to finish his message to congress on this subject in time to read it in person in the house before another week is passed.

The president in his address to the house will make a vigorous denial of the contention which has raised its head among Democratic leaders on both sides of the capital that currency legislation at this session is uncalled for. He will devote much attention to his belief that revision of the currency should follow closely on the revision of the tariff, and will seek to imbue Democrats with the idea that it is a party duty to enact a currency revision law almost to the same extent as to enact a new tariff law.

The currency measure, as it now stands, provides for a system of regional reserve associations of national banks, 15 in number, which in turn are to be under the supervision of a central board in Washington. The central board will control the issue of the new so-called asset currency. It will consist of nine members, three to be elected by the reserve association, four to be appointed by the president, and the secretary of treasury and the secretary of agriculture.

GO ON FREE LIST

Duties on Iron and Steel Raw Materials Are Removed.

Washington, June 16.—The transfer to the free list of the tariff bill of iron and steel raw materials, with an estimated dutiable value of more than $600,000 a year, was approved by the majority members of the senate finance committee. This increased the senate's additions to the Underwood free list to an aggregate annual loss of $2,000,000 in revenue, making the total estimated annual revenue loss from the free list about $27,000,000.

PURPOSE NOW TO HURRY THE CLOSING TASK TO FINAL END

WILL RUSH WORK ON TARIFF BILL

Democratic Leaders Anxious to Wind Up Special Session.

CURRENCY REFORM TO GO OVER

Revised Underwood Measure Will Be Laid Before Caucus of Democratic Senators This Week and Will Be Reported to the Senate Wednesday Week—Bryan Urging Action On the Arbitration Treaties.

Washington, June 16.—Developments indicate determination on the part of Democratic leaders of congress to pass a tariff bill and wind up the work of the extra session without action upon currency reform or any other important subject.

The tariff revision bill is to be pushed to completion and laid before the Democrats of the senate in caucus before the end of this week. In the meantime, notwithstanding President Wilson's repeatedly expressed desire to see some positive action taken toward a reform of the nation's financial situation, the controlling forces in the party of both houses are showing a disposition to defer action on monetary reform until the regular session opening next December.

The tariff is to come into the senate in the second stage of revision, in 10 days. The senate finance committee will complete work upon it early this week and an immediate call will be issued for a Democratic caucus. It is believed the bill will be formally presented to the senate, ready for debate in that body by June 25.

The fight over free wool and free sugar, so far as the Democrats are concerned, is believed to be over by the administration leaders. Senators Ransdell and Thornton of Louisiana and Walsh of Montana are the only Democratic senators, it is now believed, who will refrain from taking the caucus pledge. Even Senator Walsh might support the bill, some of his friends declare, after it is apparent that he has done everything in his power to have a small duty put on raw wool.

The arbitration treaties sent in some time ago, extending existing agreements with Great Britain and several other countries, have not been touched in the senate for nearly 10 days. In the meantime the president and Secretary Bryan are understood to have urged Senators Chamberlain and O'Gorman to withdraw their opposition to the British treaty and allow its ratification.

Both senators have stated openly within the last few days, however, that they do not propose to withdraw their opposition or permit the extension of the British arbitration pact unless it is forced upon them by a two-thirds vote of the senate. Their opposition is based upon belief that the United States should not again bind itself to a treaty that Great Britain construes as forcing this country to submit the Panama canal dispute to arbitration. If the British treaty is to be renewed, both senators demand that a clause be inserted expressly exempting the Panama canal tolls question as a subject of arbitration.

MINE OPERATORS PRESENT CASE

Have Scores of Witnesses to Produce Before Probers.

THEIR ATTORNEYS KEPT BUSY

Will Attempt to Disprove the Testimony of a Former Mine Guard, Who Alleged the Use of Armored Cars in Firing on the Camp of Strikers. Miners Collecting Much Documentary Evidence.

Charleston, W. Va., June 16. Coal mine operators of West Virginia began offering testimony today before the senate mine strike investigating committee.

Attorneys for the operators lined up scores of witnesses they will produce in an effort to show they are not to be blamed for the conditions which threw the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek mining districts into a state of civil war.

Much of the activity of the mine operators' lawyers will be directed toward breaking down the story of Lee Calvin, former mine guard, the star witness for the miners, who told the committee of his experiences on the armored train which shot up the camp of miners at Holly Grove, on Paint creek, just before the last declaration of martial law.

Calvin accused Quinn Morton, a mine operator, of urging that the train return and fire again on the camp, after the fire from the cars had once raked the little village, and after Cisco Estep had been killed beside his home. Quinn Morton himself, Sheriff Bonner Hill, who was on the train, and others who were on the train will be called by operators in an effort to disprove Calvin's statement. Calvin will be recalled for cross-examination.

The discussion of general conditions leading up to the strike is the only branch of the inquiry which the committee has left to dispose of during its stay in Charleston. On this point the operators desire to present

Prince of Wales Seized and Spared at Aldershot.

London, June 16.—The Prince of Wales, who is serving as a private in the officers' training corps, which is out for the annual practice near Aldershot, was taken prisoner during the sham maneuvers. He also had his pockets searched. The prince was sent on scouting maneuvers near the camp. He was ambushed and captured by the "enemy" and had his rifle and cartridges taken from him. He was also searched for dispatches. The prince was jolted by his captors, who did not recognize him. He was, however, rescued shortly afterwards by his own corps. His captors fled.

Cleveland Minister Receives Support of His Parishioners.

Cleveland, O., June 16.—The entire parish of the Church of the Incarnation is backing its rector, the Rev. Gerard F. Patterson, in his troubles with his wife, Mrs. Mae Fee Patterson, from whom he sued for divorce. An official letter signed by the vestry was mailed to each parishioner asking their support for the pastor in his time of trial. Rev. Patterson's divorce suit is the second to a suit for $10,000 damages recently brought against Mrs. Patterson by Mrs. Margaret Van Voorhees Lloyd, who alleges that the rector's wife alienated the affections of her husband, M. Van Voorhees Lloyd, wealthy grain dealer and clubman. Mrs. Lloyd also is seeking separation from her husband.

Each group was attacked and rushed out of the park.

Washington in Gala Attire with Flags and Bunting Floating to the Breezes, Waves Her Welcome to the Boys in Blue.

THE COURT OF HONOR

A VERITABLE FAIRYLAND

Festoons of Lights Swing From the Massive Pillars. Plenty of seats and Drinking Fountains provided. Comfort of Visitors Looked After Systematically.

Washington C. H. is ablaze with brilliancy in honor of the 47th annual Encampment, Department of Ohio, G. A. R., and is extending a splendid welcome to the delegations of the G. A. R., Ladies of the G. A. R., W. R. C., Sons of Veterans, Daughters of Veterans and Ladies' Auxiliary as they are arriving by each incoming train.

From one end of the town to the other floating flags and waving bunting have transformed Washington into a marvelous city of gay color and those homes far from the line of march loyally display the red, white and blue in quantities of decoration.

Never has the business section of the town been so gorgeously decorated and Sunday night when the electric lights were switched on for the first time the illumination was dazzling. Court street, between Main and Fayette, the heart of the decoration, presented a resplendent scene beyond any attempt of the past. Stately white columns, surmounted by waving palms, sentinelled the Court of Honor, which was festooned and arched throughout by myriad glowing incandescent bulbs and illuminated by hundreds of Japanese lanterns. Far down court street and the streets opening from it festoons of the gay lanterns extended across the streets, flanked on either side by office buildings, stores and other establishments, magnificently decked with the national colors in great variety of embellishment. Under the big trees of the court house grounds peeped out hundreds of lanterns and at night the maze of color was like a scene from Fairyland. Hundreds

The decorative scheme everywhere is in the hands of capable professional artists, who have employed expert skill in preparing our city for the honored veterans of the G. A. R. and their auxiliaries.

Arrangements for handling the veterans and the crowds who will visit this city this week are still under way.

Sanitary drinking fountains, which furnish an abundance of fresh water at all times, have been installed at various points on the sidewalks in the business district, and will prove a god-send to the thirsty men, women and children.

Comfortable seats have been placed on the sidewalk at frequent intervals, and will offer an easy place for the weary veterans.

The court house lawn seats have been crowded throughout the day, and the early arrivals have been making themselves at home, and once more fighting the battles of the sixties.

Citizens are greeting the visitors with words of welcome and hearty hand-shakes. The reception committee has had its hands full, and will be busy until the encampment comes to a close.

Tonight and tomorrow morning will witness a great influx of visitors and the department officers who have not yet arrived will be here on the late trains this evening or the first trains in the morning.

Quite a large number of assignments have been made, with many following every hour.

Men and Heavy Timbers Drop Fifteen Feet, Landing in Confused Heap on Cement Floor.—Foreman Frank Bush Escapes With Few Small Bruises—X-Ray Machine Used on Injured Man.

Without warning and with a crash that could be heard three squares distant, a large section of scaffolding upon which four men were at work in the room under the auditorium of the new school building, fell to the concrete floor, fifteen feet below, shortly before nine o'clock Monday morning, and each of the four men suffered injuries more or less serious.

When the weight became too great for the combined weight of the four men the scaffold suddenly dropped, hurling men, scaffolding timbers and plastering tools to the floor below, where they alighted in a confused heap.

Mr. Sanders was the most seriously injured, the large bone of his left leg snapping near the ankle, and the bones of his right heel giving way. He was also injured about the hips and severely shaken up generally.

Chas. Blainiey, one of the plasterers sustained severe bruises and an ugly gash across one leg.

A. B. Wilt, another of the men who fell, suffered painful bruises about the right arm and shoulders.

Frank Bush was more fortunate than his three companions, and out of some slight bruises, escaped without a scratch.

BULB EXPLODES MAN LOSES EYE

Fred Bailey, Singer Sewing Machine Agent, Meets With Unusual Accident Saturday Night Which Robs Him of One Eye—Taken to Hospital for Operation.

Fred Bailey, manager of the Singer Sewing Machine office on West Court street, was the unfortunate victim of a serious accident about 7:20 Saturday evening, which resulted in the loss of his right eye.

The accident which resulted so seriously to Mr. Bailey was a most unusual one, and came very near robbing him of both eyes in addition to lacerating his face in a very serious way.

Mr. Bailey was at his place of business which is two doors east of the Dale store, and went to assist two or three men who were in the act of placing a 400 candle power electric bulb in front of the Dale block.

One man was on a ladder, and while Mr. Bailey was in the act of assisting in steadying the ladder while the globe was attached, the globe slipped from the socket, which was apparently a little large for the bulb, and fell some ten feet, striking Mr. Bailey full in the face and at the same instant exploding with a report like a pistol.

The hundreds of fragments of the bulb were scattered far and near and some of the pieces penetrated the man's right eye, splitting the eye-ball wide open and cutting his face so that blood poured profusely from the wounds.

Suffering the most intense pain he was removed to the Fayette hospital where the eye was removed and the other wounds given attention. He suffered severely from the shock and it will be several days before he will have his usual strength.

In Social Circles

The Daughters of the American Revolution celebrated Flag Day in delightful fashion on the large lawn of the Brownell homestead Saturday afternoon.

The afternoon's hostesses were Mesdames Pruden, Blakeley, Bush, Waddell, Woodward, Misses Ella Hess and Lucy Brownell.

The beautiful lawn, with its fine old trees throwing luxuriant shade, provided an ideal spot for the gathering of daughters, who enjoyed alike its cool breezes and fragrant flowers.

Miss Haidee Van Winkle gave a most entertaining little informal talk on her summers of European travel and Mrs. Blanche Cockerill McFadden a charming reading, "The Stars and Stripes", and other musical numbers, both patriotic and otherwise, from a fine Victrola, under the direction of Miss Laura Brownell, were greatly enjoyed. A dainty summer collation was served.

Washington relatives and friends have received announcement cards bearing the following inscription:

Miss Clara Meek and Mr. Lester Henry Hamley announce their marriage on Tuesday, June 25, 1913, Walla, Walla, Washington. At home after June 29th, Pendleton, Oregon.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. S. F. Johnson and visited here just before leaving for the West. She is a very pretty girl and has many friends in this city who will be interested to learn of the nuptials.

several years ago, and so far the amount raised exceeds $600,000, and as soon as the million dollar mark is passed, a site purchased by Congress will become the property of the organization, and the Memorial will be in charge of the Smithsonian Institute.

Today Ohio has about $6,000 to her credit, and this amount, together with the amount yet to be raised will furnish the Ohio room in the building. The county in Ohio contributing the largest amount to the cause will have proper recognition in the Ohio room, and Fayette has a good chance to win the honor.

The building, in addition to being a memorial to the Father of His country, will be an institute for higher education, and every patriotic organization can meet in the building without cost. The convention hall is expected to be one of the largest in the country.

Everyone wishing to contribute to the construction of the building and receive a button as evidence of the fact will find the buttons in charge of the Boy Scouts.

It may be interesting to know that the Department of Ohio, G. A. R. approved the plan two years ago during the encampment at Lorain, Ohio.

The Army Invades Washington

Today and tomorrow an army will invade Washington. Already the advance guard of the Grand Army of the Republic has arrived in the city and is engaged in making what few arrangements are yet to be made for taking care of the veterans who will be with us this week.

The city has put on gala attire to welcome the army which is one of peace and on a happy mission bent. The members of this grand army come to talk of the days of war, to keep bound up anew in this one of the annual reunions the bonds of friendships made in the days which tested the worth of friendship, when fidelity and truth rather than money or property prestige was the test by which men were known and which formed the solid foundation upon which has been built the G. A. R.

As the two score years and ten have rolled by many of the actors in the great Civil War drama have answered the final call and crossed over into the land from which no traveler returns. Others have grown feeble under the weight of passing years. But those who have marched away forever have left representatives who will come in their place and bring tidings of good cheer to the comrades. They come also to assist the survivors in the work of the week, because the nerve is not so steady, the limbs are not so sturdy, the eyes are not so keen as they were fifty years ago.

The auxiliary organizations are an outgrowth of the G. A. R., and an important factor in these annual reunions.

To the great army on peaceful, happy mission bent, and to those who assist that army Washington extends her welcome and the best she has is theirs but to command.

This city has been captured by the Grand Army of the Republic and for this week that army will hold possession.

Washington people gladly surrender to that army.

Welcome, thrice welcome to the G. A. R. The best that the city has is prepared for the hosts.

How About Hot Water Pipes?

Among the objections to the proposal to do a great deal of street paving, the one which seems to have the most real merit back of it, is that one which is urged by property owners along streets, under the surface of which the hot water heating plant mains are laid.

It is urged by these property owners that these service pipes are frequently getting out of shape, necessitating digging up the street. They point out that if some arrangement is not made by which the Central Heating plant either makes its "conduits" more permanent or removes the mains from the streets to the alleys in the paved street section that the expense of paving will be a waste of money only.

This objection it seems, however, can be easily removed by compelling the heating company to improve the means of transporting its hot water from station to consumer. If it is impossible for the company to put in a more durable system than the one now in use, then, if possible under the law the municipality should compel the removal of the mains from the street.

They can be laid in the alleys just as well.

There is no good reason why a private corporation like the company which furnishes our citizens with gas, electricity and heat, should not give way to the superior right of the public the same as an individual.

If present conditions of the heating plant "conduits" are, as some of the property owners insist, such as necessitate frequent excavations of the street's surface, those conditions should be bettered.

If to so order would mean an expense to the company, it would be no worse off than the owners of modest homes who are compelled by the demand of the public and for the good of the public, to incur an expense beyond their means.

Council in its very praiseworthy go-ahead street paving program, should recognize no distinction between the private corporation and the individual.

Both and both equally must give way before the demand of the public.

One thing is certain the City Council should not saddle an enormous street paving expense on the property owners under such conditions as will necessitate the destruction of the work by a public service corporation in the performance of its duty.

Council certainly will be guilty of no such folly as to compel the paving of streets over a trouble mine of poor pipes or a system which must frequently be dug down to through the street.

Poetry For Today

THE STARRY BANNER.

Our country's flag is flying,
The red, the white, the blue,
And to that starry banner
Give we our promise true,
Give we our promise true,
Which ne'er forgot will be,
For our country's starry banner
We'd lay us down and die.

Its stars are like the heavens,
Its stripes are like the dawn,
Its folds they are the fairest
That e'en the sun shone on,
That e'en the sun shone on,
Beloved by every eye,
For our country's starry banner
We'd lay us down and die.

When cold and dead I'm lying,
Oh wrap it around my feet,
For the touch of its folds when dying
Will make the death sigh sweet,
Will make the death sigh sweet,
For it's all the world to me,
For my country's starry banner
I'd lay me down and die.

May 26, 1879.

A match game of baseball was played on Friday between the Union School club and the recently organized club, of this place, on the grounds of the latter club, in which the nameless club came off handsomely victorious. Score stood 10 to 9.

INTERESTING BITS OF NEWS

(By John E. M. Kerr.)

The government pays annually for rent of postoffices not owned by the state, the near sum of $4,280,000. The Postoffice department owns 719 buildings and a recent investigation shows that if these were debited to the department service the operating charges would be increased by $5,514,797. Under the present method of postoffice bookkeeping this sum is lost.

A great opportunity lies before North Dakota—it is that of bringing good literature for the first time to the boys and girls in the country districts. The third biennial report of the State Public Library Commission says that the teachers write that some school houses in the state are without a slaking book and they find pupils who have never seen any book but a textbook.

This year St. Paul is building a record number of churches. The estimated cost of new churches built or being built in 1913, runs close to $1,000,000, not to mention the improvements that many churches are making.

Auctioning the furnishings of the old Astor House is finished. The sale has been attended by large crowds daily, but the beautiful furniture often went for a very low price, the contents of a room frequently bringing but $20. A man who had occupied room 229 for many years, bid its furniture in for $50.

The White Motor Car Company landed the largest single order for the year when the Kaufman Bros., of Pittsburgh, a great department store, bought twenty-three big trucks.

Higher prices and better goods was the sentiment expressed by members of the Biscuit and Cracker Manufacturers' Association at their annual meeting in Chicago Saturday. "We have decided to put the value in our goods, instead of labels, prize coupons and similar advertising," said the secretary. "And this, of course, will mean a slight increase in the price of crackers and biscuits, but the customer will appreciate the increase and change."

American bakers to compete with English goods under a lower tariff realize their products must be materially improved.

The trustees of the Henry Dutton Methodist church in Philadelphia are building a new church edifice. To fill a long-felt want a garage for baby carriages will be incorporated in the plans of the builders, large enough to hold 100 of the small carriages.

Notices have been sent out to contractors that bids are wanted for the construction of the Samuel Walker Library building in Wilmington. A Cincinnati firm drew the plans.

The Park committee of the Cincinnati Business Men's club are considering the proposition of converting the Carthage Fair grounds into a public park.

TABLOID BOOZE IS SERVED IN MAINE

One May Carry Whisky or Beer in Vest Pocket.

Bangor, Me.—A Maine sheriff might find a barrel of beer or even a jug of whisky, but he can't find a beer bottle or a cocktail shaker, and over that glad fact the friends of this state are rejoicing now.

For the tabloid booze drummer has come to Maine and is doing a rushing business in condensed drinks of all kinds, from plain whisky to cocktails and from beer to gin fizzes. The drummer carries a considerable stock of the tablets with him for immediate demands and arranges for further and unlimited supplies by mail. Many bars in Bangor, Lewiston and Portland are selling tabloid drinks, while a great many men who just must have their whisky or beer when they want it have obtained their own supplies and make their liquor at home while they wait, and the wait is not long. Nobody here knows anything about the constituent elements of the tablets, but nobody cares so long as they produce something that looks and tastes like liquor.

The tablets come in little paper boxes or glass bottles of a dozen each, and the price varies. A small phial of one kind of tablets, costing 13 cents, dissolved in a gallon of water, with other ingredients costing 50 cents, makes a gallon of what passes for whisky—total cost, 63 cents. It is not whisky that would appeal to a connoisseur, for it burns and bites all the way down, but is as near to whisky as a good many people are able to get in some parts of Maine, and it "goes."

Beginning Monday, June 16th, the Public Library will close at 7:00 p. m., until further notice.

ACCUSED OF 25 MURDERS.

Missouri Life Prisoner Said to Have Used an Ax.

Leavenworth, Kan.—Twenty-five murders committed with an ax within the last three years in Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Iowa and Illinois are ascribed to Henry Lee Moore, now serving a life term in the Missouri penitentiary, according to a theory formed by Mr. W. McClaughry, special agent of the department of justice after an exhaustive study of the so-called ax murders.

Mr. McClaughry is a son of Warden McClaughry of the federal penitentiary here and was charged of the bureau of criminal identification at the penitentiary.

Moore went to the penitentiary at Jefferson City after being found guilty of the murder of his mother and grandfather, Mrs. Mary Wilson and Mrs. George Moore, at Columbus, Mo., in December last year. Moore, on trial, said he had made a study of famous murders, including the Crippen case in England.

AN UNUSUAL MORTGAGE.

Farmer Puts Up Chickens, Hogs and Revolver as Security.

Washington, Ga.—There was placed on record in the office of the clerk of Wilkes county what is considered the most unusual mortgage ever recorded in this or any other county.

The security named in the recorded instrument consists of the following valuable property: to wit: "Nine chickens, two sow hogs and a 32 caliber pistol." The amount of the debt thus secured is $25 and it is provided that if the obligation is not met at maturity the property mentioned therein shall be sold at public outcry. All non-payment of the mortgage is waived by the maker of the mortgage.

The question is being asked, "Does this mortgage emphasize the increasing value of the hog and poultry products, or is it not another indication of the extreme stringency in the land about which so much has been said and written—whichever?"

AMERICAN FORCES ENCOMP IN PECULIAR HEADQUARTERS

OCCUPY THE CRATER OF EXTINGUISHED VOLCANO

American Troops In Hawaii Con- vert It Into a Fortress.

Honolulu, June 16.—American troops in the Hawaiian Islands have taken possession of the crater of a large extinct volcano, situated on the east coast, and are working night and day to convert it into a fortress capable of withstanding a long siege. Ammunition, food supplies and other supplies are being stored within it, guns are being mounted, a water supply has been arranged for and gardens have been planted on the slope of the crater to provide food and thus render the place self-sustaining in case it is besieged for any great length of time.

This information reached Boston from an authentic source in Honolulu. The communication further said that Americans residing in the Hawaiian Islands, including the troops, are very much excited over the Japanese situation. In Honolulu trouble with Japan is regarded as certain, and recognizing the fact that under ordinary circumstances the 60,000 Japanese living in the islands, most of whom are former soldiers, would have little difficulty in seizing the possessions, the authorities are straining every nerve to prepare to resist to the last.

The acting executive, General Huerta's selection of General Blanner as minister of war shows that Huerta is determined to run matters himself, as General Blanner has for a long time operated under orders from the provisional president.

Provisional President Huerta announces that he will redouble the government activity against the rebels in all parts of the country. The war department, the citadel and the national arsenal, are bristling with activity, and the city is full of newly arrived troops and volunteers, while military trains are being prepared in the railway yards.

High officials of the war department say that 1,500 men and 20 heavy cannon under General Rodio Navarrete will go forward to cooperate with the column of General Delago against General Natera's rebels, who are fleeing toward Somborere, and will afterwards go against the rebels of General Lucio Blanco, who occupies Matamoros.

SUGGEST A PLAN TO STOP IT ALL

WAY TO END WAR SCARES

Jordan Would Throw Publicity Upon Corporations Interested.

Denver, Colo., June 16.—If public opinion were thrown upon the corporations interested in war, war scares would die out, and "revolutions" "summer down," says David Star Jordan, chairman of the National Standard university, who is in Denver. "Japan could not go to war with the United States even if it wanted to," he declares. "It would have to come to the United States, either directly or indirectly, to get the money, and New York could prevent a war. New York stopped the Russo-Japanese war."

"Japan wants war no more than San Francisco wants earthquakes. The most practical advance that has been suggested for the solution of the war question is the treaty proposed by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan. They provide for an impartial investigation of the cause of a war for six months before the opening of war."

many witnesses. When the inquiry here is concluded the committee will return to Washington to conclude its hearings.

The committee, under the resolution of the senate authorizing the investigation, has solely the power to inquire and report. Whether the senate itself has jurisdiction over any of the matters involved in the controversy between the miners and the operators is a grave question.

The representatives of the miners have gathered together a large amount of documentary evidence of conditions in the coal fields. In addition, Senator Kenyon contemplates a thorough inquiry into the financial operations of the operators on Paint and Cabin creeks, who lease the land they mine, and the ownership of the mineral lands.

Word came to Charleston early today from various sources that the miners at work in the operations at Paint and Cabin creeks had voted at a mass meeting to renew the strike.

"BETTER FIRE PROTECTION" AGITATION PROMISES RESULTS

Members of Council's Committee of Safety Has Been Diligently at Work Since Masonic Temple Fire, Striving for More Water and More Pressure.

WATER COMPANY IS MOVING TO BETTER CONDITIONS

Many Urge That Purchase of Big Auto Truck Would be Useless Expenditure Unless Water Supply is First Materially Increased. Insurance Rate "Fixers" Place Blame for High Rates on Insufficient Water Supply.

After more than one year's delay, the effort to secure better fire protection by means of a huge reservoir and double suction line at the plant of the Washington Water company, it seems, now bids fair to become an early realization, and formal action has been taken by the Washington Water company officials to have work commenced on the new improvements with as little delay as possible.

The agitation for better equipment at the local water plant was the direct result of the big fire of Dec. 30, 1911, when the water pressure was such that efficient fire fighting was almost impossible. Soon after the fire Council took up the question of better equipment, and the Safety committee was appointed to investigate and report.

After much hard work and careful study of the situation, recommendations for a big reservoir and double suction line were made, and after some delay the Water company agreed to comply with the formal request made by the committee and Council, but the lethargic attitude of the company became such that the Safety committee of Council, of which Councilman Durant is chairman, repeated the demand for early action.

The committee has accomplished more work and spent more time in solving the problem and securing results than the general public is aware of, and in view of the agitation to purchase a motor fire truck, and the consequent question of securing ample water supply for it, the Safety committee again became busy. After presenting the matter to Council and securing a resolution from that body for legal action against the Water company, Chairman Durant sent a communication to Harvey Myers, president of the Washington Water company, who is an attorney and resides at Covington, Ky.

In his communication Mr. Durant apprised Mr. Myers of Council's action, and stated in part:

"In order that you may know that we are in earnest in this matter, Council has by resolution directed the solicitor to file suit to enjoin your company from supplying water to the railroad companies for steam purposes, in doing which we think you have exceeded your rights under the franchise. In case the improvements are made forthwith, the suit will be withdrawn, since we are not disposed to deny you source of profit as long as the city is not made to suffer.

"In case the improvements are not made, this committee will recommend that suit be brought, claiming forfeiture of franchise. However, we are very anxious to avoid litigation, but we are more anxious that our city have the improvements which we think we are justly entitled to have."

In reply to his communication, Mr. Durant has received the following letter promising immediate action on the part of the company, and Supt. Fisher has received instructions to proceed with the improvement at once.

The letter says in part: "I am just in receipt of your letter of yesterday threatening suit against the Washington Water company in the event certain improvements heretofore promised by us are not immediately made. So far as we are concerned it would not hurt the Washington Water company if that were forfeited, for it is not a paying contract.

"However, we are certainly convinced without the bringing of any suit that you and your associates are in earnest in your desire for these improvements, and we beg you to believe that the Washington Water company is just as earnest in its desire to do whatever is necessary to furnish an adequate supply of water, together with reasonable fire protection. But you must bear in mind that our earnings under our contract with the city are not sufficient for the plant operated in the most economical manner possible, to make these improvements. It calls for a serious addition to our capital and as there are no bonds or stocks in the treasury, it has called for some other means of financing this additional capital. Although the matter has been delayed, it has been, through no fault of our, I beg to assure you.

"I have instructed Mr. Fisher to proceed with the work. He is now at home and will go right along with the laying of mains as ordered by Council, and we shall take up the other work and hope to have it completed in good time this summer.

"Thanking you and the committee for the indulgence, and assuring you of our good intentions and that the delay has been through circumstances which we could not control, I am Very truly yours,

HARVEY MEYER,
President."

That the Washington Water Company is really in earnest seems to be borne out by the following dispatch from Columbus under date of June 13.

"The Washington Water Company, of Washington C. H., today presented to the Ohio Public Service Commission that it cannot sell $12,000 of short time notes, and asked to substitute $12,000 of cumulative notes."

After going into the matter in detail, when talk of purchasing a motor truck fire engine arose, the committee concluded that under present conditions the water supply would not be adequate for effective use of the motor truck, and the question of obtaining more water and for a longer period became acute. With the additional equipment recommended by the committee and which the Water company agrees to install this summer, ample water would be supplied for fire fighting.

At the present time the plant is pumping 800,000 gallons each day, or 1040 gallons per minute. The domestic consumption is 555 gallons per minute. There is therefore left for fire purposes 485 gallons per minute under direct pressure. The total capacity for a 24-hour run of the pumps would be about 1,500,000 gallons. The capacity of the stand pipe is 293,000 gallons, and the capacity of the new reservoir it is said will be in excess of 300,000 gallons.

Some members of the City Council while favoring earnestly the bettering of fire fighting facilities, are skeptical on the proposal to buy a $10,000 auto truck as a solution of the problem. They fear that the big auto pumps would be rendered useless by the insufficiency of the water supply.

One member of the Safety committee states that "fire insurance rate fixers" declare that the purchase of a dozen auto trucks would not bring about a reduction of the present high rates of insurance. The absence of a sufficient water supply lies at the root of the claim that the city has "insufficient fire protection" so effectively used to boost the rate of insurance.

While there is an apparent division of opinion among officials as to just when to start to better conditions, a full argument of the whole subject on the proposal to purchase a ten thousand dollar auto truck, will likely lead all to reach a clearer understanding and start on a determined crusade for better fire protection for Washington, from the same point and work along the same lines.

The prospect of securing the establishment of better facilities by Water Company, seem now brighter than ever.

THE MUD-HOUSE MAUSOLEUM

Has had its day and has been pronounced a failure. Why?

Because of its construction. Because there has been so many different companies constructing them, then breaking up as soon as they collect for the crypts which they sell, going to another town, organizing another company under a different name and trying to pull off the same thing over again.

Because, that it has been proved that $10.00 per crypt will not keep the building in repair. It will hardly keep the mud off the floor if the janitor is to be paid for doing the work.

I noticed in last Saturday's issue of THE HERALD where the Ohio Mausoleum Co. offered a reward. Well Mr. Mausoleum Man, would you mind answering a few questions which any prospective buyer of crypts should know?

No. 1. Who is the Ohio Mausoleum Co.? How much are you incorporated for, the Directors?

No. 2. Is there not a parent company above you, or have you the exclusive right of the U. S. Did you not buy company right from this company?

No. 3. Is not the community mausoleum a PATENTED building AND ACCORDING TO THE PATENT MUST BE BUILT ACCORDINGLY wherever built?

No. 4. Have you ever built any mausoleums? If so, where are they located? How long have they been completed? How many crypts do they contain? How many of the crypts are in use to your knowledge, in each building?

No. 5. Did you show our cemetery trustees any community mausoleum which has been completed for four years? If so, please state the town. Did you build any of the buildings erected in the towns I mentioned in Friday's issue of THE HERALD? They were all community mausoleums and the method of construction patented, were they not?

No. 6. Would you place this $1000 which you have offered as a reward in the hands of our mayor?

Please answer these questions in the next issue of THE HERALD so as to make THE COMMUNITY MAUSOLEUM PLAINER TO THE PUBLIC. ALSO THAT WE MAY LOOK MORE CAREFULLY REGARDING THE REWARD WHICH YOU OFFERED LAST SATURDAY NIGHT.

In the issue of the Herald dated October 2, 1912, is described the Community Mausoleum as it was confirmed by the cemetery trustees. It states that Mr. John Green and Mr. Norman McLean were much pleased with the plan, BUT that Mr. N. S. Barnett did not favor it. Is this, Mr. Mausoleum Man, satisfaction among Cemetery Trustees? Will this collect that $1000 reward, or what is necessary to collect it?

This same paper also states that this Community Mausoleum will cost several thousand dollars; that there will be three thousand dollars left in the treasury for the up-keep of the building; that it will contain 300 crypts which will be disposed of at $125 each; the total amount as the paper states, would be $37,500 received. Mr. Public Citizen, ADD THIS UP AND SUBTRACT THE COST. WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THE PROFIT? MR. BUSINESS MAN CAN YOU FIGURE A PROFIT LIKE THIS IN YOUR BUSINESS? I hardly think so. I have been told that Community Mausoleum reading has been pronounced by lots of people in this county as NEWS, so let's give the community, Mr. Mausoleum Man what they want.

Yours Very Respt.,

MOTORCYCLIST HURT NOW IN HOSPITAL

One of the Columbus motorcycleists who was on his way to this city to enjoy a chicken dinner and a social half day with other motorcycleists from all over central Ohio met with a serious accident near the West farm, north of Bloomington Sunday morning about 11 o'clock.

The young man was going at rapid speed when he struck an unusually dusty spot in the road with the result that he was thrown violently to the ground and another machine struck him.

He was picked up in a semi-conscious condition and taken back to Columbus in an automobile which was accompanying the body of motorcycleists for use in just such an emergency. He was taken to a Columbus hospital where he was resting easy when last heard from. Internal injuries are feared.

MANY MOTORCYCLISTS ENJOY CHICKEN DINNER

Nearly 150 motorcycleists from all over the state and a few from adjoining states who were in this part of the state Sunday attended the chicken dinner given by Samuel Van Pelt and others in this city Sunday.

It was by far the largest aggregation of the popping machine riders that ever assembled here, and motorcycleists lined the streets for several hours.

A very toothsome chicken dinner was served at the K. of P. dining hall and in addition to a liberal plate of chicken, ice cream, cake, lemonade and cigars were served.

After mingling together for a couple of hours after dinner the large company disbanded and the joy riders dispersed in all directions headed toward their home towns. Nearly a score of towns were represented in the big gathering.

The visitors, after lunch, had a group picture taken by Campbell.

WOULD AVOID ALL LABOR DISPUTES

Industrial Peace Chief Aim of Secretary Wilson.

TO UPLIFT CONDITIONS.

"Capital and Labor Are Partners, and Each Should Have Voice in Determining the Terms," He Says—Doesn't Favor Strikes.

Washington—William Baughman Wilson, secretary of labor, is a strong, sturdy man, with blond hair, fair face, fighting gray blue eyes and a Scotch accent. He was born at Blantyre, Scotland, April 2, 1862, and came to this country nine years later. Settling with his parents in Thoga county, at Arnot, Pa., he became a mine worker at the age of ten. The following year, just after he had passed his eleventh © 1913, by American Press Association.

SECRETARY WILLIAM B. WILSON. Year, he was made a half member of the Mine Workers' union. He obtained his early education from a small village school and in rough and tumble debates in union meetings. He was elected to the Sixtieth, Sixty-first and Sixty-second congresses. March 4 he was appointed secretary of the new department of labor.

This is the story of the man who is the first to hold a particular cabinet office.

"What this department hopes to do primarily," said Secretary Wilson, "is to try to bring about such conditions that 'uplift' work in industrial centers will not be needed. We are proceeding on the assumption that capital and labor are partners, capital furnishing the material ready for use and labor the vitalizing force. Capital and labor should each have a voice in determining the terms of the partnership."

Secretary Wilson thinks that a strike is like a war between nations—to be resorted to when all other efforts have failed.

"I would not favor a strike if any thing else was left for me to do," he said. "In strikes, as in war, there are destruction and ruin, but there are times when they cannot be avoided."

"I look upon the department of labor as a means of helping to bring nearer by year the goal of social justice. Every man is entitled to the full social equivalent of what he produces. The problem is to arrive at that condition. Capital and labor are partners."

"Capital without labor is ineffective, labor without capital is idle. Capital is animate, labor gives it life. The one can produce nothing without the employment of the other. To be effective capital and labor must serve each other. Their interests diverge when they come to divide what they have produced. These two elements should sit down together and work out a plan by which the division of profits will be fair, with due regard for the rights of each."

It has been feared by advocates of the "open shop" that Secretary Wilson would lean a little closer to organized labor than he should do in this country of all sorts of labor. But he denies that he is to be a union labor officer of the government. He believes that laboring people should organize and that a union labor man, as a rule, is more fit than the nonunion worker.

"With the growing industries," said Mr. Wilson, "there is no longer that personal relation between employer and employee that formerly existed. The employer is compelled to deal with larger numbers. The employee as an individual cannot make as satisfactory a contract with the employer as he can when he unites with his fellow workers and fellow men. That is what makes a labor movement necessary."

"The department of labor was instituted to obtain by the rule of reason—that is, by striking a basis where the employer can compete with rivals and also pay satisfactory wages—a fair and amicable adjustment of all trade disputes. This would be a rule of reason based upon facts."

"The purposes for which the department of labor was established will have been accomplished if we can bring capital and labor together upon a just basis."

WHISTLING CAT HAS HARELIP.

Animal Never Has Mewed, but is Musical Prodigy.

Springfield, Mass.—Stanislaus Czyszky of Prospect avenue, West Springfield, is the owner of a cat with a harelip, which whistles with the facility of a schoolboy, but cannot mew or, at least, never has mewed.

Czyszky is inclined to believe that no animal in its normal state of mind would whistle, but is loath to do away with the cat, which, he says, attracts more attention than any other member of the family and is regarded as a musical prodigy.

Neighbors have suggested that the cat would prove a treasure to a maker of catgut violin strings.
